A path of art: painting and drawing, capturing the surroundings as well as the physicality, reproducing these in various techniques, remodelling the observed. The joy of the form and reproduction of surroundings, modelling physicality anew in colour and finding expression. A path in the sense of art means acquiring skills. This includes my training in art history at University of Regensburg, interior design at School of Design in Düsseldorf, colour design at Textile College in Zurich and various workshops in nude drawing and experimental artistic realisation at Art Academy in Zurich. Painting from nature: people and their surroundings, partly in her own studio and partly while travelling. Themes in various techniques, drawn in black and white, with colour in watercolour, oil and acrylic, the bodies also modelled three-dimensionally in ceramics.
